Waterlow Oval frame issues. 1935 - 1941
Printer – Waterlow & Sons
Perforation 12.5

This is the first series printed as General Revenues. It is believed that in 1940 during the eruption of the Second World War, quite some of the already printed stamps could not be transported to Thailand. They were delivered sometime after the end of the war. A second printing was issued in 1948. This 1948mseries is separately listed.

The baht values in this printing look exactly the same as the baht values in the 1935 printings. However, proofs are known for this 1948 printing.
The satang values have a different perforation of 13.5 compared to the perforation of 12.5 for the 1935 issue. It is believed that the satang values were printed just before the start of World War 2 and never reached Thailand till 1948.

Precancels on General Revenues

Starting 1954, branches of foreign banks in Thailand were allowed to precancel their general revenue stamps. Most banks stopped this practice around 1960, except the H.&S.B.C. bank which continued precancelling till the late 1990's.

The following precancels exist:

H.&S.B.C.	Hong Kong & Shanghai Banking Corporation
M.B.I.	Mercantile Bank India
M.B.	Mercantile Bank
N.H.B.	National Handels Bank (Dutch bank)
C.B.I.	Chartered Bank India, Australia and China
C.B.	Chartered Bank
Deutsche Bank	(German bank)

The Hong Kong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, H.&S.B.C.

This is the most common found bank precancel. It is also the only bank which issued precancels after 1960, having precancels from 1955-1997. There are many print runs being done, resulting in different fonts of the precancel. Some of the different fonts are shown below. The cancels can be found in 3 colors, black, blue and red.

Seventh Issue, Circular frame
Printer - Thomas De La Rue
Perf- 13
Issued 1962-1984

In 1961, Thomas De La Rue took over the printing company of Waterlow & Sons. Initially, Waterlow continued printing the seventh issue using the old printing plates, keeping even the imprint of Waterlow & Sons. During 1962-1968, gradually the old Waterlow printing plates were replaced by Thomas De La Rue plates. In the margin, a small letter imprint, Thomas de La Rue. After 1968, the small letter imprint was replaced by larger letter imprints.

In the newly made Thomas De La Rue plates, basically the same dies were used as for the previous Waterlow plates. So, printings cannot be distinguished from each other without imprint information. However, after 1968, the 20 and 25 values were retouched and the third letter a vowel received a bum. For the 5 and the 20 baht De La Rue stamps got a small secret mark each.

The 20 and 25 satang De La Rue printings.

The 20 and 25 satang printed by De La Rue before 1968 can not be distinguished from the Waterlow printing without imprint information available. After 1968, the plates were redrawn.

The De La Rue printings after 1968 got a small dot on the left side of the stamp. See the black arrow.

The 20 Baht, GR-090 and GR-091

The first Thomas De La Rue printings of the 20 baht are exactly the same as the Waterlow printings. However, starting in 1976, two small secret marks were added to the 20 baht value. This is the same year as Thomas De La Rue started to apply phosphor ink to print year and run codes on the baht values of this series. See the black arrows in the picture below for the location of the secret marks.

Imprints in the lower margins

For the values printed by Thomas De La Rue before 1968, the imprint letters are small. After 1969 the letters become larger, except for the 10 satang. The 10 satang imprint did not change size after 1968.

Phosphor tagging on Thomas De La Rue and Harrison printed stamps.

From 2519 or 1976 onwards, phosphor tagging was used on the baht value stamps, the tagging is visible under UV light. The tagging shows about 100 times over the stamp and the margins the print run, followed by the year of printing. The tags show up in 3 different colors, gold, red and blue. The blue color seems very sensitive for humidity and is quite easy faded or difficult to see under UV light. A computer simulation is shown in following pictures,
